"…Jordan consistently works above and beyond what is expected of him, displaying incredible work ethic in the process…"
− Jacob Levitt, cofounder of Mixtaped.

"…An incredibly hardworking person, but what stands out the most is his personality and willingness to learn…"
− Michal Symbalisty, cofounder of Mixtaped.

"…I always tell him (Jordan), if he is a stock, I would bet all my money on him on his success…"
− Ted Kim, President of Heartland Event Planning LLC.

What are the qualities are you looking for in a candidate?
I know I am particularly valuable to companies but I couldn't really pinpoint what it is exactly that makes me different from the others. Not until recently.
It all drives down to one thing: my insatiable desire and drive to become someone significant to the world. This drive has given birth to all the qualities that my past teammates have recognized in me. These qualities include my incredible work ethic, my constant breakout of comfort zones to do the right thing, and the relentless effort to continuously improve myself.
Going back to the question I asked in the beginning. I believe the best candidate is the one that has the hunger to become significant and successful. Because this person will naturally do whatever it takes to make himself and his employer thrive.

with respect and sincerity,
Jordan
